Workshop 1:
Infrastructure financing with bonds and business trust

The demand for infrastructure in Asia amounts to some US$8 trillion between 2010-2020. In China alone, with an estimated US$67 trillion of nominal GDP growth over the next 5 years and with economic reforms laid down to sustain growth, it's now a matter of infrastructure development. This session aims to initiate discussion on infrastructure finance with focus on two most feasible financing solutions in bonds and business trust in view of current market developments.

Workshop 2: Participating in China infrastructure

China is accelerating 300 infrastructure projects valued at 7 trillion yuan this year as policymakers seek to shore up growth. These projects span across various industries such as oil and gas, utilities, healthcare and transportation. Both public and private sector participation will be critical as China leverages their capital and expertise for continued infrastructure expansion. This workshop seeks to share emerging opportunities and collaboration spaces, including Public-Private Partnerships amidst China's urbanisation drive.

Lee Seng Chee

Partner at PricewaterhouseCoopers

Wu Naijun

Chief Representative of China Rizhao (Singapore) Business Representative Office

Workshop 3: Developing infrastructure projects in Turkey and CIS

Ambitious targets have been set for Turkey's infrastructural development under the government's Vision 2023. In the transport sector alone, an additional US$45 billion of investments is expected by 2023 in high speed railway, metro and airports. The session will discuss the potential of infrastructure project opportunities in Turkey, as well as the CIS (Commonwealth of Independent States) region, with a focus on the transport and environmental solutions sectors.

Jean-Patrick Marquet

Director, Turkey, European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD)
